It should seek to provide a concise summary. The Past-president is the liaison for this report and will take an active role in its writing rather than it being delegated solely to the ACCI Executive Director and the ACCI office. It is the responsibility of each ACCI Committee planning such activities to inform the Executive Director of the intent to contact specific outside funders. (1988).
 - b) Board Liaison: President
 - c) Fundraising Chair: A Member in good standing selected for willingness to lead this effort with both Members and friends of ACCI. Members recruited to this committee will have the review and approval of the Board of Directors. ;
3. Types of Fundraising and definitions
 - a) Annual giving - Each donor is asked each year to provide funding for your organization. Usually, the donor leaves it up to the Board and staff to decide how to use the money.
 - b) Endowment - A permanent, non-investable fund. Contributions to an endowment are usually larger than an annual gift would be and can be pledged and paid over several years. Annual earnings on the endowment investment (interest, dividends, growth) are available for the organization's projects every year for scholarships or research or purchases (e.g., books for the library). The principal amount of the gift cannot be used. It stays in place and continues to grow.
 - c) Capital funds - Build buildings and buy equipment. A capital campaign is often combined with an endowment campaign (to make sure there is money to pay the light bill once the building is in use.)
 - d) Special project funding - major gifts for larger, one-time efforts that are important to your mission, but not possible with the current revenue stream available to you. Some companies and grant-making foundations prefer supporting special projects - one at a time - rather than making a commitment to an endowment.
 - e) Planned giving - designed especially for individual donors. Many people want to be involved now, but they may not have current assets available. There are simple planned gifts such as a codicil to one's will or a paid life insurance policy naming your organization as owner and beneficiary. There are also more complex planned giving instruments known as charitable trusts. Always advise a potential donor to seek independent, individual tax and legal counsel before making a planned gift. (these definitions were provided by Carolyn Fazio at the 2013 Fall Board Retreat)
4. Fundraising in which ACCI has agreed to be currently engaged (2014)
 - a) Annual giving:

- (1) The Board authorized the collection of donations to fund grant giving (April 9, 2014)
- (2) Requesting and receiving direct donations from individuals for general or specific purposes is allowed.
 - (a) For instance, the annual conference registration form will contain an option to donate.
 - (b) The website will have a section to donate funds; an option will be provided to restrict the use of the donated funds.
- b) Endowments as they relate to awards
- c) Planned giving: ACCI may receive solicited and unsolicited gifts and bequests from individuals. (1988)
 - (1) All donations shall be payable to the American Council on Consumer Interests, and shall be sent to the Executive Director for deposit
 - (2) For donations under $1,000, the donor may designate the contribution to an existing ACCI restricted fund
 - (3) For donations of $1,000 or more, the donor may designate a specific use for the contribution, including establishment of a restricted fund. However, the Board of Directors may decline to accept funds for that use
 - (4) In cases where public acknowledgement of the donor is deemed appropriate, the Board of Directors and the donor shall determine a mutually agreeable form for such acknowledgment. Either the Board or the donor may initiate the discussion the acknowledgement.
- 5. Grant Seeking:
 - a) ACCI may seek funding from private, for-profit organizations for special projects or Conferences that advance the purposes of ACCI, according to adopted guidelines and under the following conditions:
 - (1) ACCI retains control of the purposes for which funds are used, any products or publications emanating from the project, and the allocation of funds.
 - (2) The activity or publication is identified as a function of ACCI with funding organizations being identified as funding sources only (this does not permit ACCI co-sponsorship of activities, projects, or publications which are identified as emanating from for-profit organizations. (1984)
 - b) Guidelines for Acceptance of Funds from either other Non-profit Entities or Commercial Entities to underwrite or support ACCI Projects (adopted November 1984).
 - (1) ACCI may seek funding from commercial entities for special projects, which will accrue to the ultimate benefit of consumers, including conferences, research, publications and other activities. Many times these ACCI project further not only ACCI purposes and objectives, but also serve the interests of the entities which provide the funding. The following conditions have been established to govern acceptance of funding from commercial entities by the ACCI.
Preamble: The integrity and independence of ACCI as an association convened for the well-being of individuals and families as consumer must be preserved in all negotiations and agreements. The guidelines set forth below are intended to assure attainment of that objective in all funding relationships with commercial entities. Members of ACCI who represent the association in such relationships must always be mindful that their responsibility is not merely to satisfy the literal requirement set for by these guidelines, although that is essential, but also to assure that the spirit and purpose of the guidelines are honored in all negotiations and actions.

(2) Potential funding entities are to be made fully aware of ACCI guidelines related to solicitation and acceptance of funds and a written agreement is to be made to assure ACCI and the Commercial entity that goals are met for each group.

c) Limitations

(1) Funds are to be solicited only for purposes and by person specified by the Board of Directors of ACCI. The Board customarily works with the Fundraising Chairperson in these activities.

(2) The individual or Committee responsible for soliciting funding must communicate with the Executive Director before contact is made with a potential funding entity to avoid multiple ACCI contacts with the same entities. The Board of Directors and Executive Director will provide assistance and guidance regarding specifics of solicitation and approval of names of entities to be approached for funding and will review procedures and actions of solicitation Committees upon their request. However, review is not required and should not impede the effort of those soliciting fund from making timely progress.

(3) A venture funded in whole or in part by one or more commercial entities is to be identified as an ACCI activity or product. Commercial entities providing funding are to be identified as funding agencies. They are not to be identified as sponsors or co-sponsors with ACCI except if approved by the Board of Directors.

(4) Funding entities may be recognized on the program or publication as having underwritten all or a portion of the activity or product.

(5) ACCI is to have full control over the program and/or publication being funded; funding entities do not have the right to reject, edit or censor any speaker, writer, program components or any aspect of substance or content of any program or product being underwritten. If a funding entity has objection to content or persons associated with the program or product that is developed, the funding entity may request that any public notice of its funding of the project be avoided, and that request must be honored.

(6) The funding entity has no automatic right to inclusion of one or more of its representatives as speakers, writers or other substantive role-player in the project.

(a) However, qualified persons associated with the funding entity are not necessarily excluded from such roles; such inclusion rests on substantive merits, as determined by the individual or committee of ACCI responsible for the project.

- (b) Funding entities may recommend program content, or particular speakers or writers, for inclusion in the activity. As long as they are merited on substantive grounds, they will receive consideration for inclusion on the same basis as suggestions from other entities are considered.
- (c) Funding entities may make it known publicly that they have provided funding for the specified ACCI program or publication so long as such information is presented in a manner that is in keeping with these guidelines. Any mention of ACCI whether in print, electronically, or otherwise, must first receive the approval of ACCI.
- (d) Funding entities may be extended the right to present oral or written statements to participants or readers, for the purpose of extending greeting, commenting upon the relevance of the project, expressing support for the project, or communicating other such messages which are appropriate to the occasion or publication.

(7) If a funding entity acts in a manner not consistent with these guidelines, or brings pressure to bear upon ACCI representatives to violate either the letter or the intent of the guidelines, the ACCI may terminate negotiations with that entity, and if necessary, abort the project. Under such circumstances, any funding already advanced will be utilized to cover costs incurred by the project to that point, and any remaining funds will be returned to the entity which provided them.

ACCI Investment Policy
Adopted January 11, 2013

Statement of Objectives

The objectives outlined in this investment policy statement (IPS) have been established in conjunction with a comprehensive review of ACCI's current and projected financial requirements. The objectives are:

Objective #1: To have the ability to make annual awards from Restricted and Unrestricted investments.

Objective #2: To have the ability to provide for conference speakers from Restricted and Unrestricted investments.

Objective #4: To maintain a funding cushion for (1) unexpected developments, (2) possible future increases in award structure and expense levels, and/or (3) a reduction in the expected return on investments or interest rate assumptions.

Objective #4: To maintain flexibility in determining the future level of cash flows related to membership fees, conference expenses, and other recurring events.

Objective #5: To achieve the maximum rate of return on invested assets consistent with acceptable levels of risk.

Investment results are the critical element in achieving the investment objectives, while reliance on additional contributions from membership, conference, and donation sources is a secondary element.

Guidelines and Investment Policy

Time Horizon

There is a requirement to maintain sufficient liquid reserves under the direction of the Executive Director to provide for the payment of ongoing expenses from current income, investment earnings, and principal. Analysis of previous years' cash flow needs suggests that sufficient liquid and marketable assets (i.e., at least $35,000) need to be held in banks convenient to the Executive Director. The ACCI Executive Director will notify the Investment Committee well in advance of requesting a withdrawal from other investment assets to allow sufficient time to build up additional necessary liquidity. Given the investment objectives of the Association, a three (3) year time horizon will be used for assets invested in equities and fixed-income securities. Overall, the investment portfolio should be invested so that only a low risk of loss of investment value, due to market fluctuations, is taken.

Risk Tolerances

The Board and Investment Committee recognize the difficulty of achieving the Association's investment objectives in light of the uncertainties and complexities of contemporary investment markets. The Board also recognizes that some risk must be assumed to achieve the Association's investment objectives. In establishing the risk tolerances of the IPS, the ability to withstand short- and intermediate- term variability was considered. These factors were:

- ACCI operates in a fluid environment where membership is likely to fluctuate in correspondence with the general economy and the status of educational programs at colleges and universities.
- ACCI's current financial condition enables it to adopt a short- to intermediate-term investment perspective with those investments that are currently restricted or temporarily restricted.
- Overall, liquidity requirements are critical. Demographic characteristics of ACCI members suggest a low- to below-average risk tolerance.

In summary, ACCI's prospects for the future, current financial condition and several other factors suggest collectively that the Association can tolerate only minor interim fluctuations in market value and rates of return.

Performance Expectations

The desired investment objectives include:

- (a) A short-term rate of return on investment assets equal to or greater than the average 180-day money market mutual fund index.
- (b) Over a complete business cycle, the Association's overall annualized total return after deducting for advisory, money management, and custodial fees, as well as total transaction costs, will be managed to perform above the median of a customized index comprised of money market and certificate of deposit assets.
- (c) A long-term rate of return on other Association investments that at least matches the national average 3-month certificate of deposit rate of return.
- (d) The target rate of return for the Association's assets has been based on the assumption that future real returns will approximate the long-term rates of return experienced for each asset class in the IPS; however, past performance of investment assets is no guarantee of future returns.

The Board agrees to reevaluate this IPS at least bi-annually. Furthermore, the Board realizes that market performance varies and that benchmark rates of return may not be meaningful during some periods.

Investment Philosophy

Given the cash flow needs and investment objectives of the Association, the investment portfolio should be allocated among equities, bonds, cash, and cash equivalents so that there is low to moderate risk of loss of investment value due to market fluctuations. The Board and Investment Committee believe that a three (3) year time horizon is appropriate when allocating investment assets. To achieve adequate diversification among investments, use of mutual funds for equity or bond investments is strongly encouraged. Potential for change over time in membership size and organizational goals necessitates a short to mid-range planning horizon for investment decisions. As a guideline, ranges of specific types of investments are given in Table 1.

Asset Allocation Constraints

The Board believes that the Association's risk and liquidity posture are, in large part, a function of asset class mix. The Board and Investment Committee have reviewed the long-term performance characteristics of various asset classes, focusing on balancing the risk and rewards of market behavior. Investments shall consist of short-, medium-, and long-term investments. The following asset classes were selected for the Association's investments:

- Savings and Checking account
- Bank Certificates of Deposit
- Brokerage Certificates of Deposit
- Money Market Funds
- Short-Term Bond Funds
- Domestic large capitalization equities
- Domestic mid-capitalization equities
- Domestic small capitalization equities
- International equities
- Domestic fixed income
 - Short-Term
 - High Quality
 - Moderate and Low Quality
 - Intermediate-Term
 - Long-Term
 - Cash equivalents

Table 1 summarizes the strategic asset allocation approach to be used for investments (not including liquid assets under the direction of the Executive Director):

Table 1 - Portfolio Two - Strategic Asset Allocation

	Lower Limit	Strategic Allocation	Upper Limit
Domestic large capitalization equities	0%	10%	25%
Domestic mid-capitalization equities	0%	10%	25%
Domestic small capitalization equities	0%	0%	15%
International equities	0%	0%	15%
Domestic fixed income
Short-Term	0%	20%	75%
Intermediate-Term	0%	0%	20%
Long-Term	0%	0%	20%
Certificates of Deposit	0%	50%	100%
Cash equivalents	0%	10%	100%

Rebalancing of Strategic Allocation

The percentage allocation to each asset class may vary as much as plus or minus five percent (5%), depending on market conditions. When necessary and/or available, cash inflows will be deployed in a manner consistent with the strategic asset allocation as outlined above. If there are no cash flows, the allocation of assets will be reviewed quarterly by the Investment Committee. If the Board and/or Investment Committee judges cash flows to be insufficient to bring the Association's assets within the strategic asset allocation ranges, the Board and/or the Investment Committee shall decide whether to effect transactions to bring the strategic allocation within the threshold ranges (strategic allocation).

Use of Investment Earnings

Permanently Restricted Investments

Earnings on permanently restricted investments may be used to fund awards. Unless allowed by the donor agreement, the principal of permanently restricted funds will not be used to make awards.

Temporarily Restricted Investments

According to ACCI policy, only investment earnings should be used to make awards from temporarily restricted investments. Any deficit between award and interest earned should be paid from ACCI general funds.

General Investments

General investments will be managed to maintain liquidity and marketability. Both interest and principal may be used to meet ACCI cash flow needs.

Unrestricted Funds

Interest and principal may be used from unrestricted funds.

• General Investment Policies

Hold Harmless Policy

The Investment Committee shall be held harmless with respect to all investment decisions and outcomes carried out within the confines of this document. The Investment Committee will be insured under the Board of Directors policy held by the ACCI.

Policy Objectives

The Investment Committee and Board of Directors will review investment policy at least bi-annually to determine the continued feasibility of achieving the investment objectives and the appropriateness of the IPS for achieving those objectives. It is not expected that the IPS will change frequently. In particular, short-term changes in the financial markets should not require adjustments to the IPS as it relates to the allocation of Association assets not needed for liquidity purposes.

Monitoring of Investments

Semi-annual performance will be evaluated by the Investment Committee to test progress toward the attainment of longer-term targets. It is understood that there are likely to be short-term periods during which performance deviates from market indexes. During such times, greater emphasis shall be placed on peer-performance comparisons with managers employing similar styles. In summary, the performance of the Association's portfolio(s) will be monitored on an ongoing basis, and it is at the Board's discretion to take corrective action by replacing a manager, fund, or individual security if they deem it appropriate at any time.

Policy Changes

It is at the Board's discretion to take action to revise this Investment Policy Statement. If, at some future date, it is decided that the policies and guidelines no longer fit the needs of the Association, the Board may commission a study or report to evaluate changes to the document, at which time a revision vote can be taken.

ACCI Reserve Policy

Purpose:

The purpose of this Reserves Policy for the American Council on Consumer Interests (ACCI) is to ensure the stability of the mission, vision, programs, and ongoing operations of ACCI. Further the purpose is to guide the association budgeting process so as to create adequate reserves to sustain the association's operations for at least one year in case of unforeseen circumstances.

Funding Policy:

ACCI will maintain its reserves in a temporarily restricted account, though these funds may be invested for growth purposes. This Reserves Restricted Account is separate from the permanently restricted assets named Colston Warne Lecture, Esther Peterson Policy Forum, and the Karpatkin International Speaker Fund.

Accounting for Reserves:

The funds may be invested in asset classes recommended by the ACCI investments committee. Currently, reserves are maintained in the ACCI Schwab one account in accordance with the investment policies of this organization (2015).

Funding of Reserves:

The reserves are funded through budget allocations or residuals, and are accumulated across time. The Board of Directors may also direct from time to time that a specific source of revenue be set aside for the reserves. Examples could include one-time gifts or bequests, or special grants, receipts etc.

Monitoring the Reserve Account

The Executive Director and the treasurer will monitor the funds on a regular basis; a review of the reserve account will take place at the regularly scheduled Board Meeting at the annual conference.

Annual Budgeting for Reserve Growth and Maintenance

At the Board meeting to review the next year's annual budget, the line item dedicated to investing in the reserve account will be discussed. A minimum of $5,000.00 is highly recommended as the minimum contribution to raise the reserve to its recommended level annually; a larger contribution is recommended until the goal is met.

Funding Goal for the Temporarily Restricted Reserve Account

At the time of this reserve policy review, a goal of $200,000 in liquid or invested assets that could be liquidated is recommended to preserve the integrity of ACCI. This goal is approximately equal to one year's total budget.

Appropriate use of reserves funds

The Executive Director will identify the need for accessing the reserve funds and confirm that the use is consistent with the purpose of the reserves as described in this Policy and the ACCI handbook. Decisions to utilize Reserve Funds will first be based on the availability of any other sources of funds before using reserves, and evaluation of the time period for which the funds will be needed, and expected to be replenished.

Authority to use Reserves

Authority for use of the reserves is delegated to the Executive Director in consultation with the Executive Committee. Requests to use funds may be made to the Executive Committee or the full Board of Directors at a regularly scheduled meeting, at a special meeting, or by email discussion and/or vote. The use of Reserves will be reported to the Executive Committee and the Board of Directors at their next scheduled meeting, accompanied by a description of the use of funds and plans for replenishment of the reserves. The Executive Director must receive prior approval from the Executive Committee for use of reserves.

Reviewed and Approved by the Board of Directors at the board meeting on November 18, 2020.
