

Cäzilia Loibl

Candidate for Board Member

Current Position

Associate Professor in Consumer Sciences
Department of Human Sciences
The Ohio State University

State Specialist for Family and Consumer Sciences
OSU Extension
The Ohio State University

Academic Background

2002, Ph.D., Household and Nutrition Sciences, Munich University of Technology, Germany
1998, M.S., Household and Nutrition Sciences, Christian-Albrechts-University at Kiel, Germany
2005, CERTIFIED FINANCIAL PLANNER™, Certified Financial Planner Board of Standards, Washington

ACCI Activities

Member since 2006
Member of Nominations Committee (2013 – 2014)
Chair of Applied Consumer Economics Award (2009 – 2011)
Reviewer of conference submissions in many years

Other Professional Activities and Honors

International Association for Research on Economic Psychology: Honorary Secretary (2017-2019)
Journal of Economic Psychology: Associate Editor (Since 2015)

Journal of Consumer Policy: Editorial board (since 2015)

Journal of Consumer Affairs: Editorial board (since 2011)

Journal of Financial Counseling and Planning: Editorial board (since 2011)

Memberships

Member, International Association for Research on Economic Psychology

Faculty Affiliate, OSU Initiative for Food and AgriCultural Transformation (InFACT)

Faculty Affiliate, EHE Research Methods Center

Senior Fellow, Leeds University Business School, University of Leeds, United Kingdom

Faculty Affiliate, OSU Food Innovation Center

Faculty Affiliate, OSU Decision Sciences Collaborative

Faculty Fellow, Center for Financial Security, University of Wisconsin-Madison

Statement of Goals for Office (about 150 words maximum please)

ACCI is the key organization in my field and I am honored to be considered for service on its board. My goals are to help recruit for ACCI members with appointments in both academic and university extension programs, share information about ACCI with colleagues in Europe, and provide outreach to faculty and lecturers who, like me, teach in financial planning tracks. I would greatly appreciate the opportunity to serve on the ACCI board.